I drive a truck for a living. XM radio benefits me. If I need to know what the weather is doing or find out if there are any traffic situations, I can get it right away and avoid it or prepare for it before I even get to the listening area. I can get it instantly and not have to search for on the dial and then wait for the local stations to give it to me. If they even give it out at all. If the local stations want to keep listeners they need to step up their programming and not take away a convenience from me.
